POOL SAFETY — Mrs. Pat Canet of Lemon Grove watches as Pamela Osinski makes a practice rescue of Michele Evans during a swim class. Michele's brother, Craig, stands by. The volunteer program sponsored by the Red Cross and the PTA will continue throughout the summer. In the classes the children are taught water safety and beginning swimming skills. Ten of the 13 elementary schools in the Valley-Grove Council have swim programs this summer. Last year 1,612 local children had lessons.

Sups Ponder Change In County Dance Law

SAN DIEGO (CNS) — The County Board of Supervisors Tuesday heard Sheriff Joseph O'Connor explain his reasons for wanting a tight ordinance to control teenagers at dances. The board held action until the final draft of the ordinance can be prepared for the inspection of those interested.

The law would be stricter for dances that are run for commercial reasons than for dances being given by groups because the law says that patrolmen must be stationed at each door and there must be one additional patrolman for each 100 attending the dance. Groups such as the YMCA however would not have to hire the patrolman after their chapters are approved by the sheriff.

O'Connor singled out the Fayaton Building at 7702 Broadway in Lemon Grove as a place where there has been trouble many times this year. He said that this consisted of two boys doing a "dirty" dance, several hassles with the private pa-

SURROUNDED BY FLAMES — Flames from burning dry grass creep close to a Spring Valley home while firemen keep close watch. The fire Tuesday covered about ten acres firemen reported. It began shortly after noon in the 2800 block on Helix st. No homes were reported damaged but smoke from a burning pile of old automobile tires could be seen for miles. In addition to four Spring Valley fire units responding to the fire there was a unit from Lemon Grove at the fire and a second on standby. The cause of the fire was undetermined officials said Tuesday.

'East County Economy Is Bright' — Mulvaney

San Diego's economic future is as bright as the lights of its myriad motel signs, the Lemon Grove Men's Club learned Friday from Jim Mulvaney, vice president of the U.S. National Bank and president of the San Diego Padres.

Just prior to Mulvaney's program, Jacob Dekema, District Engineer for the State Division of Highways, held an informal discussion concerning the proposed alternate routes for State Sign freeway 282, which will cut between Lemon Grove and Spring Valley.

Mulvaney, a lawyer, civic and business leader, has been extolling the economic potential of the east county since he first came here about a decade ago. Friday, he counted off the plus advantages of this area after first establishing that business climate is psychological. "When the President called in the steel leaders and told them to roll back prices, the market fell and business slumped. When JFK faced up to Nikita Khrushchev on Cuba, the market boomed and business went into orbit," he said. These were psychological reactions.

"There are many features to assure a healthy economy here," Mulvaney said.

He said San Diego had long since overcome the effect of the airframe industry layoffs. Employment is up 2,000 over the corresponding month of last year and unemployment is down from 7.7 to 7.3 per cent. He said the factory level income national average was $100; California average, $112; and San Diego average, $122. "You can't discount that benefit," he said.

The State highway development program had brought fresh dollars (dollars not generated locally) into the local economy. Agriculture provides a growing and stable type of industry; construction has picked up and employment is up and unemployment is down he said, as reasons for economic optimism.

The tourist dollar turns over seven times he said and it benefits everyone. In spite of the tremendous growth of hotels and motels there was no vacancy among the motels for ten straight weeks last year. Tourists produced $170 million in "fresh" income annually.

Bank deposits and bank debits are up, Mulvaney added. There is a new skyline in San Diego with three high rise buildings completed and one nearing completion. One of these, the U.S. National Bank, has a 100% occupancy quotient in spite of "New York" type rates ($7 a foot).

Retail facilities have increased 28% during the past cycle, yet most businesses are doing well. He cited the U.S. National's Lemon Grove branch's increasing business level as a case for local business. "We all face 'soft spots' occasionally, but the trend is there and the trend is good," Mulvaney said.

The San Diego Port is in boom status. 50 ships called in 1950. This year more than 800 will use San Diego as a port of call.

A second bay entrance and development of the South Bay area as an international industrial community assures a strong economic future.

The educational industry with its thousands of students and faculty is also a basis for economic stability. The colleges are here and more being built.

The oceanographic sciences industries and the greatest aquatic park in the world contribute to the economic stability.

The argument of industry against tourism is not a valid one, Mulvaney said. "We've got both and the economy is stabilized across the spectrum."

"What we have to add is optimism," he said.

The Lemon Grove Men's Club meets Friday at noon at Horse-shoe Tavern. All males are invited.

Public Meeting For Choice of Freeway Routes

A preview of a public hearing on the routing of State Sign 282 was given to members of the Lemon Grove Men's Club Friday by Jacob Dekema, District engineer for the State Division of Highways. He gave an informal talk just prior to a program presented by the featured speaker, Jim Mulvaney.

Dekema said State route 282 from a point just south of Mount Miguel high school northerly to State Highway 94 would be considered in light of what the public wants. Two routes are under consideration. One is along the west side of Sweetwater rd. The other is east of Bancroft. Both routes, from beginning to Grossmont Summit, where the improvement ends, are 4.4 miles in length. 350 properties would be disrupted along Bancroft; 250 along Sweetwater. The cost either way would be about $25 millions. Included in the figure is the purchase of all property between Broadway and 94 from Sweetwater west to Palm, should the Sweetwater route be adopted.

The new freeway, expected to handle 100,000 cars a day, will save motorists $46 millions over a 20-year period, Dekema said.

The public meeting on the freeway routing will be held in Spring Valley late in August, Dekema said.

The DIMMER VIEW

by MAX GOODWIN

Racial Ratio Employment Can Hurt

If a Negro youth asked a white girl, with whom he is acquainted, to marry him and she turned him down because of his race, would the youth have a basis for a suit against the girl's family charging breach of equal rights?

Deliver us from being accused of racial prejudice by those who are determined that no one shall question the rights of the minority to discriminate against the majority, but the proposition does make an interesting question of legal rights.

The question arises as CORE (Congress of Racial Equality) and its followers are putting the heat on the Bank of America in San Diego charging that BoA is not hiring a fair share of those minority races using the ratio of minority to majority races in San Diego as a formula. They also demanded that BoA make employment reports to them. BoA claims to be hiring a higher than proportionate share and insists that no qualified person is rejected because of race, creed or color.

Racial-ratio employment brings up a displacement question. A small firm required to employ a couple of minority-race people just to satisfy the formula would be contributing to an extremely serious problem. The firm might be forced to displace one, two, three or more, old time, tried-and-true, loyal employees to accommodate demands of the ratio-to-population employment policy.

The problem: Would the persons being displaced through no fault of their own believe that Democracy had left much to be desired?

The Question: To what other political ideology would these people now turn?

Thoughtful people will want to consider all these facets as they press demands for a condition ambiguously referred to as "equality."

Melee At Cafe Brings Arrest Of L.M. Man

Carl Frederick Gage, 41, of 4057 Charles st., La Mesa, became involved in the toils of the law Wednesday when he allegedly created a disturbance at Oscar's Drive-In in Lemon Grove. He was charged with being drunk and assault and was so booked at County Jail after he is reported to have used "foul and sarcastic language" regarding police officers after he spied two San Diego policemen seated in a car eating dinner. The abusive language was said to have been made in front of a waitress after the S.D. unit left.

Gage, a heavy equipment operator, is said to have left his 1957 truck and engaged in an argument with other customers parked in Oscar's lot. From there he allegedly followed a waitress, Patricia Stafford, into the restaurant serving room in the rear of the building and grappled with her. The manager, Dwight Bailey, attempting to quiet the suspect got a poke in the jaw. Restaurant personnel finally subdued the man as Sheriff's Deputies D. Dicus and A. Hauer arrived.

Complainant Lands in Jail Ramon Juan Gallegos, 26, of 1721 Daytona, Lemon Grove, claimed he was kicked out of the "Slip In" tavern and told Sheriff's Deputy D. Dicus he wanted to file a complaint.

Gallegos, who allegedly smelled strongly of intoxicants, slurred of speech and bloodshot of Arthur Ortiz, state publicity director for the California Moose Association just returned from Chicago, Ill., where he attended the 76th International Convention of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Ortiz said that the Loyal Order of Moose will extend the services of Mooseheart, its "Child City" west of Chicago, to the families of particularly deserving non-members.

Paul P. Schmitz of Aurora, Ill., Moose general director, made the announcement at the first general session of the fraternal group's convention in the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Ortiz said facilities are available for accepting exceptionally worthy cases. As an example, he said, the family of a policeman killed in the line of duty could join the 500 persons now living in the organization's community. The family would be nominated by the local lodge and approved by the Moose board of governors.

Ortiz is also membership director for the Loyal Order of Moose and is the organizer of the Lemon Grove Moose Lodge which meets in the Lemon Grove Womens Club on Monday.

to take disciplinary action against students convicted in a shoplifting ring.

He lambasted the school for what he termed the lack of morality at the college for allowing at least six of the 19 participants in the shoplifting group to return to classes.

Judge Hewicker hit on a subject extremely sensitive among many good teachers. Said the principal of one of our local elementary schools about term end this year "It would solve some of the (community) problems if districts would let us honestly return to corporal punishment."

The college professors who should have expelled the shoplifters aren't altogether to blame. How can they be expected to reverse a trend that students have enjoyed from the preceding 12 years. Expulsion is almost unthinkable in the public school system today — probably because schools receive state funds based on ADA, that's average daily attendance. No self-respecting administrator would send a kid home and lose that $1 a day from the state — so they put the youngsters on detention. Detention is play period without words. Cagney youngsters have worked out a communication system that permits a ripple of giggles to go through a whole room without an apparent overt act or movement. So detention becomes an extension of the playground and the feeling of being penalized actually doesn't exist.

Judge Hewicker is right. The confessed shoplifters should have been expelled. But the most confused people in such an act would be the culprits because "they just don't do that anymore."

Start Something!

NEWSWEEK Magazine's Lew L. Callaway offered a stimulating piece recently under the heading "Start Something!" We recommend it for your consideration and suggest that it be considered wherever people met.

Said Callaway: "Throughout history most great civilizations that have declined were victims of stagnation rather than conquest. Apathy, indifference, detachment led to decay. In our own country today we find more people who prefer the role of spectator rather than participant. When a problem arises, the spectator asks, 'Why don't THEY do something?'"

"THEY can't help the police maintain law and order. YOU can!"

"THEY are not responsible for the conditions of your school. YOU are."

"THEY can't give your community good government. YOU can."

"Every civic group, every business, every sports clubs, every good tradition, every worthwhile institution began with a need, a vision turned into reality by someone alive, responsible and innovative."

"To the people who sit back and ask, 'Why don't THEY do something?' we ask, 'Why Don't YOU?'"

The county ordinance will also put a 12 p.m. curfew on teen dances, not allow any one to leave a dance and re-enter and will control lighting and parking.

Dear Editor:

Don't make a habit of writing letters to the editor, but I saw something which makes me sit down and write.

We all have some bad in us but I think that when we look at a cop — we think, often, that they are all bad. But what I saw today made me change my mind; at least about one man.

While turning off of Campo road onto Broadway, at the 94. Campo interchange, there was a white pickup truck with a flat tire. The truck had two young ladies as occupants. And there, believe it or not, was this policeman, with his motorcycle parked, and he, yes, he was changing the tire. I was happily amazed to see this and believe that this officer deserves a pat on the back for his good deed.

CHP Commander Hopes For Fewer Deaths Over July 4 Weekend

Capt. Roland Gautsche, commander of the California Highway Patrol's San Diego area, said he hopes "that motorists can hold the July Fourth traffic death toll even lower than the Memorial Day figure".

Memorial Day deaths numbered 35 during a 78-hour holiday. July Fourth also is a 78-hour holiday, beginning at 6 p.m. Thursday, July 2, and extending until midnight, Sunday, July 5.

"The Memorial Day estimate was 44 to 54 deaths, thus the actual toll of 35 was somewhat below the expected figure."

The commander said that Patrol officers would concentrate on enforcement against hazardous violations, "those responsible for the most accidents."

"No. 1, of course, is speed, and by that I mean speed too fast for conditions or above posted limits. Also high on the danger list are driving on the wrong side of the road, the drinking driver, failure to observe stop signs or signals, and right of way violations."
